The change from April showers to May flowers was concurrent with many changes that CALS researchers were asked to comment on in the media this month. These changes included climate change, a change in McDonald’s menu, and changes to the way we taste while on an airplane.